We can take you to a place you've never been

Introducing Connection Point

Our Vision

Better connectivity. Faster searching. Greater accuracy. Lower cost. Higher service quality. True customization. These are the goals we at Property Insight have set in response to what our customers have said they want and need.

With Connection Point, you can now connect directly with our data resources using an XML data stream, eliminating the need to manually input, intercept, translate and transcribe information, and dramatically improving efficiency and accuracy.

In addition, we are building interfaces to leading software applications that will enable our customer's customers to order their own prelims and open and track new title orders.

Connection Point is more than technology. It is part of a new business strategy to enable the free flow of information with and between companies. It's by no means the end to our search for better connectivity, but an important step to improve title processing that makes sense for today and creates new opportunities for the future.

Better XML Performance

Property Insight's version of XML does not stop at our portal but extends well into the user community. In that sense, it is more extendible and flexible than any of our competitors' strategies.

Our XML concept includes collaboration with the many vendors whose software products serve the title insurance industry.

Our XML solution is truly customized. We collaborate with software providers and customers to establish a connected information flow that meets your needs as well as those of your customers.

Your associates connect seamlessly with a full range of title search products through your in-house production system.
